Our readers have doubless noticed the numerous discusions by the scientists and hygienits as to the relative value of the rarious baking powders. A carefu silting of the Powder in purity, wholesomenes and strength, from a scientific standpoint. An opinion, however, that will weigh heavier than any other with our practical housekeepers, is that given by Marion Harland, the best known and most popular of Americans writers upon matters pertaining to the domestic economy, of house keeping, and home cooking. In a recent letter to the Philadelphia Ladies Ilome Journal, this writer says:

"I regard the Royal Baking Powder as the best manufactured and in the market, so far as I have had any experience in the use of such compounds. Since the introduction of it into my kitchen, three years ago, I have used no other in making biscuits, cakes, etc., and have entirely discarded for such purposes the home made combination of one-third soda, two-thirds cream of tarter.
